UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, HASTINGS COLLEGE OF THE LAW – AN OVERVIEW

Hastings College of the Law, founded in 1878, is the oldest law school in California and the only public, freestanding law school in the country, affiliated with the University of California (UC), an instrumentality of the State of California. One of the top-rated law schools in the United States, Hastings has 1,070 full-time students more than 30 international students, and over 250 staff and faculty. Hastings' faculty is nationally renowned as both teachers and scholars. Along with law schools at Berkeley, Los Angeles, Irvine, and Davis, Hastings is part of the UC system and takes pride in its University of California affiliation. It is, however, distinguished by certain factors owing to the special nature of its founding in 1878. On its establishment, Hastings was designated "the law department of the University," and although affiliated with the University of California, Hastings is governed by its own 10-member Board of Directors.

The College's campus consists of four buildings located at 200 McAllister (Mary Kay Kane Hall); 198 McAllister (David E. Snodgrass Hall); 100 McAllister (McAllister Tower) used for student housing, research centers, administrative offices, athletic and social spaces); and 376 Larkin (parking garage with retail on the ground floor).

The College's urban campus is located at the intersection of San Francisco Civic Center and the Tenderloin. The Civic Center is home to federal, state, and county courts, as well as the San Francisco Opera House, Asian Art Museum, Davies Symphony Hall, Bill Graham Civic Auditorium, and the San Francisco Main Library. In addition, the Civic Center, as the name represents, has been a "Mecca" for political views and gatherings and a place for weekly farmers' market and locals selling arts and crafts.

This project will be at 200 McAllister Street (Mary Kay Kane Hall), 6th Floor
